THE POSITION OF GEORGIA.

We copy below, from the Milledgville (Ga.) Union, an article defining the position of that gallant Sute in the present crisis. The Milledgville Union is a Democratic paper, and the organ of Gov. Towns. We have been a constant reader of the Union for the last seven years, and have no hesitation in saying, from our knowledge of its character, that what it says on this subject, or indeed on any other, is entitled to respectful consideration and belief. The article is as follows:

"WHAT OUGHT THE CONVENTION TO DO? This question is now on the lips of every thinking and true hearted Georgian. A satisfactory answer to it, it cannot be denied, is extremely difficult. To the subjects embraced in it, we have given our maturest consideration, and now propose to present our views for what they are worth. But before we proceed to answer the question, we beg leave to advert to certain things which the Convention assuredly ought not, and will not do. 1. The Convention ought not and will not meet and do nothing. For years past, both the great political parties of the State have been vieing with each other in denunciations of Northern aggression and expressions of determined resistance. Each stands pledged to the other, to the South and to the whole world, that they would not submit to the exclusion of slavery from the territories, nor to its abolition in the District of Columbia. The first of these outrages upon the South has already been perpetrated; and Congress by its recent act abolishing the slave trade, has asserted the right and evinced its willingness to inflict the other. For the Georgia Convention then to assemble and do nothing, and adjourn, would render her not only ridiculous in her 194. own eyes, but worthy of the pity and contempt of her oppressors. Such a course would be emphatically declaring to them, all we have heretofore said is empty bravado, and that our necks are now ready for any yoke that they may be pleased to fasten upon them.

2. The Convention ought not, and will not decide upon separate and independent State action. There are some among us, who are the avowed adsion, and fewer still, the secession of Georgia by herself. What then ought the Convention to do? We answer.

1. It ought carefully to examine into and deliberate upon the merits, as a remedy, of non intercourse -of retaliation by reprisals and by a system of discriminating taxation. If these or any other similar measures within the constitution, promise success, and can unite the Convention and the people they should be adopted.

2. If these remedies after an examination, are found impracticable or inefficient, let the Convention the savereignty of Georgia, by a solemn ordinance, then assert her rights in the territories, protest against the injustice by which she has been excluded from them, as well as against all the other violations of the national compact by which her rights and interesis have been assailed. Let the Convention by another solemn ordinance propose to all the slavehold-States, that they unite with her in sending delegates to a common Convention, which shall meet in the course of the ensuing year, consult about their wrongs, take such a course as in their wisdom shall be most conducive to their future security the honor. the interests and the rights of the people of the slaveholding States.

It is not expected even that this Convention of all the South, shall adopt as the remedy, the secession of all the Southern States, till it has presented its ultimatum to the North and given the States there, a reasonable time to retrace their steps-an opportunity of furnishing, if not indenmnity for the past, some guaranties for the future security of the South. In the mean time, the States of the South, can be making all necesary arrangements, for their mutual defence, and preparing themselves for any contingency that may await them.

Here is a platform upon which it appears to us, every true hearted Georgian can and ought to stand. It is one which ultimately will ensure redress. It may defer it, but it is not wise nor politic, that the State should act rashly, and precipitately. None deny that the South has been wronged. All who speak what they feel, admit that if she tamely submit now, she invites and must expect renewed aggressions; that if there is no immediate danger to her institutions, there is danger in the prospect. Here then, is common ground, upon which extremes can meet; a common platform where the exclusive union man, and the exclusive advocate for southern rights can stand, and where both can unite in battling for the rights of the South and for the Union as it came from the hands of our fathers. Let the South occupy this platform, and if disunion comes, she is united and prepared, when it is forced upon her, to breast any storm that may ensue."

The canvass is now going on, in Georgia, with much force and bitterness, for members to the Convention. It is to assemble in December next.

Let no one who reads the above, conclude or say that Georgia is for "immediate secession," or that she will act by herself. She will go with her Southern sisters; and if ahead of them now, she will wait, at the proper time, until they shall have joined her.

MR. HUNT'S LETTER.

The New York Globe of the 17th thus notices the for Governor in New York : "The letter is in the genuine Seward ad captan-dum style. He soft-soaps the North, the South, Mr. Fillmore, the whig party of the South and of the North, and everything else but the measures of which the abolitionists complain. He chimes in with them in not giving any decided approval to the compromise bills, except to that which abolishes the slave trade in the District of Columbia. Finally he takes ground with the abolitionists in complaining of the fugitive-slave law. This shows that he is to be supported by the opposition to this law. It presents the issue to the people of New York, which we have before said is to be determined at the present election whether the Union is preferable or not to the success of the abolition branch of the whig party. We long ago, before the nomination of Mr. Hunt, denounced him as the pliant instrument of Seward, and he has proved the truth of our assertions with his own hand. It is useless for his friends to quote his language recognising the constitutional obligations which this fugitive slave law is intended to enforce. If be countenances and stimulates opposition to this law, what other law will he approve? We have now at the north to choose whether we will enforce this law or sever the Union. Mr. Hunt says the law "conflicts with all our notions of personal right and security." The inference is irresistable that he is opposed to enforcing the law, and is prepared to risk Mr. Hartley, amounts to upwards of £90,000.

FLORIDA ELECTIONS.

We have nothing final from the Florida elections; but we fear, from the returns before us thus far, that Mr. Beard, the Democratic candidate for Congress has been defeated. We give the following as the latest: "SAVANNAH, October 18. The returns from Jackon county show the election of General Milton (dem.) to the house, and Messrs. Long and Baker, independent candidate, and Winter (whig) to the senate. Mr. Cabell loses in this county. Washington county sends one whig to the house. There were two

From the Warrenton News. HON. WELDON N. EDWARDS: Sir-In the contest between you and myself for a seat in the Senate of the next Legislature to which you were returned by one vote, my friends believe that the election was unfairly conducted, that you received a number of illegal votes, and that legal votes which would have been cast for me, were rejected at the polls. In obedience to the law of the State, and the wishes of my personal friends, it then becomes my duty to inform you that upon the above grounds I shall contest your seat in the Senate of our Legislature at its ensuing session, unless you think proper to submit the election to the people for a true expression of their will. Yours, very respectfully, M. T. HAWKINS.

POPLAR MOUNT, October 9th, 1850. GEN. M. T. HAWKINS: Sir-I received last Monday, the 7th inst., your letter of that date notifying me of your intention to contest my right to a seat in the Senate at the ensuing session of the Legislature, unless I should "think proper to submit the election to the people for a true expression of their will."

In this matter I do not feel at liberty to consult my own feelings, and am actuated solely by a sense of public duty in informing you that I decline to assume the responsibility of referring the election again to the people. It is therefore left to yourself to pursue that course your sense of right and duty may indicate. In regard to the alleged " unfairness" in the election, or the sufficiency of the grounds upon which you relate letter of Washington Hunt, the Whig candidate ly to vacate my seat, no one is less informed than myself, but I presume that, upon an investigation neither can be made to appear. Very Respectfully,
